CHOIR

There is something about a large group of voices singing together that can be very moving, and awe inspiring. But when that group of voices is not just singing, but worshiping our God and Father, it can truly pull at ones heart strings. Choir is not only about the performance though; it is also about the bonds and friendships that are formed within this group.

SOLOSISTS

It takes a special gift to be able to sing in front of a large crowd of people whether that is in the choir or as a praise team member. But stepping out in front and singing on your own often intimidates even the most talented or gifted vocalist. This being said, often times nothing is more moving than seeing someone step out of this comfort zone and raise their voice to God, while allowing the rest of the congregation to look in on this personal time of worship. After all, this is really done for an audience of One.

PRAISE TEAM

Our weekly worship service is filled with singing, God's people raising their voices as one to praise Him. This can be a truly moving moment to some, but can also be very intimidating and strange to our un-churched guests. However seeing someone on stage smiling, having fun, and truly worshiping their King, can help a guest to not only understand, but become involved, rather than simply being a spectator. It is the goal of our praise team to engage the congregation in worship through their own time of worship.

BAND

Our Band is like a family. They have spent a lot of time together, they practice twice a week, and play for both services on Sunday morning, as well as usually doing a few off- site events every year. If you have been gifted with the ability to play a musical instrument, and ware willing to commit the necessary time to be a part of our small family within our much larger church family, we'd love to have you.

DRAMA

The Goal of the LFCC drama team is to put on multiple productions each year, usually around the holidays of Christmas and Easter, as well as smaller skits and videos throughout the year. Through these presentations we hope to be an outreach to the community drawing new people to Christ, and bringing those who know Him to a closer relationship with Him.
